

Charlotte Ter Haar

I became a Community Governor of Graffham and Duncton Schools in early 2015, having moved to the area in 2013 and retired in 2014.

My most recent professional experience was as Development Director of Wimbledon High School, a leading member of the Girls' Day School Trust, and during the early part of the 2000s I was a Parent Governor of Unicorn School in Kew, SW London, where my daughter was a pupil.

After a History degree at Oxford, I've had a wide-ranging career covering banking, financial journalism and public relations, NHS management and charity fundraising, and I try to bring some of this experience to the issues facing our Governing Body. In my spare time I look after three dogs (and a husband), sing and play flute, violin and piano, and attempt to revive my former passion for oil-painting.
